

MORE and MORE AND MORE

by IAN MUTCH

ABOUT THE BOOK

Henry Harper loves collecting. One day, while out finding treasures, he discovers Kate. She loves to collect, too! Together Henry and Kate amass an amazing amount of stuff before discovering that the most valuable thing they've ever found is each other.

A great read aloud, this environmentally friendly fable about the perils of overconsumption calls for a realignment of our priorities from products to people.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Ian Mutch is an Australian artist exploring beauty through nature, narrative and details. He creates work on a variety of scales using acrylics, aerosol, and inks. Born in Africa and now living on the Western Australian coast, Mutch draws inspiration from traveling, landscapes, animals, stories and patterns. His artwork has won awards, given life to public spaces, and featured in well-known publications.
