

So you're here at the zoo on this glorious day.
You're sure to have fun – it's a great place to play.
Come through. Look around. Relax and explore.
Inside you will find there are creatures galore.
You'll have a magnificent time at the zoo ...

... just don't wake the panda whatever you do.

If you wake up the panda he gets very grumpy,
which hypes up the hippos and makes them all jumpy.
When the hippos get jumpy they usually hop,
and once they begin, they are tricky to stop.
Those hippos create such a hullabaloo ...

... so don't wake the panda whatever you do.

When the hippos start hopping, the termites get tickly.

They make the echidna incredibly prickly.

For though, as you probably know, they are titchy,
cantankerous termites are awfully itchy.

They torment the toes of the elephants too ...

... so don't wake the panda whatever you do.

The zebra, giraffe and hyenas all laugh.
The geckos and gibbons all giggle.
Which causes the emus to shimmy and sway,
and the tapirs' bottoms to jiggle.

The chimps chit-chatter.
The ducks start quacking.
The jabirus jabber
and the yaks start yakking.

So waking the panda might spark off a riot,
and that's why we like to keep things nice and quiet.
