ABOUT THE BOOK

When Sally's nemesis hatches a fowl plot, there's no room for the lily-livered. Sally and friends will need all their pluck to return the world to its rightful pecking order.

This is the fourth book in the S.Tinker Inc. series of graphic novels.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

James Foley makes award-winning picture books and graphic novels for kids. He is the creator of the Sally Tinker collection of stories – chronicling the outlandish (but science-based) adventures of the world's foremost inventor under the age of twelve – and also of the Secret Agent Mole series.

NOTES

- Written with humour, these graphic novels offer some simple life wisdom alongside a healthy dose of entertainment.
- This book will be appealing to young readers, with themes of annoying siblings, gross bodily functions and a twelve-year-old ready to save the day.
- When first released, the book made into onto the ALIA Graphic Novel Notable List (2020) and the Comics Arts Awards of Australia (Shortlist 2021).
- The other books in the series are Dungzilla, Brobot and Gastronauts.

PRAISE FOR THE BOOK

'For middle-grade readers who like a lot of humorous action, this is their book.' Buzz Words

'This book would be great for people who like humour, dinosaurs and comics. If you have read any other James Foley books and liked them, you would like this one.' Alexia, age 9, Alphabet Soup

'James Foley has filled the pages of this book with humour, action, surprises and comical chicken puns all [of] which actively keep the reader engrossed in the story.' Australian Library and Information Association

'Full of humour and witty puns on anything poultry, eggy or chickeny, kids will love the strength shown by Sally in leading her group to some sort of feathery end.' Magpies
