GREEN RINGER: A FITZROY CROSSING MEMOIR
STEVE HAWKE
February 2027 • $32.99

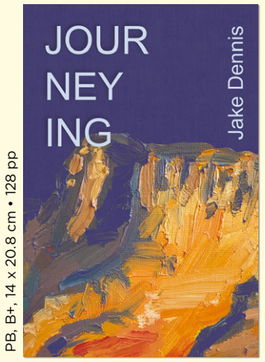

As Bob Hawke began his ascent to prime minister, his son Steve was experiencing inspiring leadership in the remote North-West as Indigenous communities rose up against decades of oppression. From a shocking encounter in an outback pub to the firsthand account of a survivor of the frontier massacres, and from the groundbreaking Noonkanbah land rights battle to the birth of the Indigenous outstation movement, Steve Hawke was there to capture it all.

His chronicle of young romance and wild adventure offers a rare glimpse into a moment when ancient traditions and modern aspirations collided – and one young man forged his own identity in the midst of great change.

BLACKSWANSONG
MICHAEL BURROWS
March 2027 • $34.99

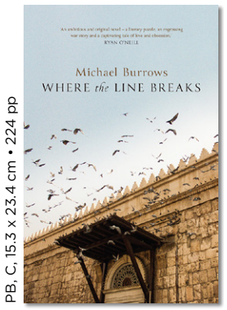

A masked bushranger. A cursed gold nugget. A forbidden affair. Some legends fade. Others refuse to die.

In the early days of the Swan River Settlement, the bushranger known as the Black Swan was the subject of stories and songs, fear and awe. Down the generations, the tale of the infamous outlaw is now being told by those who were there, and those who still have some of the bandit's blood coursing in their veins.

GONE GURU
NADINE BROWNE
Available now • $34.99

Noni Barlow is broke, jet-lagged and alone in New York with nothing but a dream and a manuscript. When her idol Joyce Carol Oates tells her that Born Again memoirs are so 'last year', Noni's big break starts to feel like a big mistake.

To add to the general weirdness, she meets her new flatmate only once before he vanishes into thin air – and that's even before Noni discovers he is a transcendental meditation guru with a massive following, and a million-dollar trust fund.

Aided by an octogenarian social worker, and the sarcastic daughter of her landlady, Noni finds herself deep in the case of the disappearing guru. Is this the new plot line she needs to save her writing career?
